

Radiation Medicine & Applied Science Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

The Department of Radiation Medicine and Applied Sciences (<http://radonc.ucsd.edu>) at UC San Diego is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Department of Radiation Medicine and Applied Sciences is seeking Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor radiation oncologists to join a growing team of radiation oncologists, medical physicists, and basic science researchers at the Moores Cancer Center in La Jolla, one of 56 NCI-designated comprehensive cancer centers in the country, and its satellite locations in San Diego County. This position is within the Division of Radiation Oncology. The primary location for this position is at our La Jolla facility.

The primary focus of the position will be on Clinical Medicine and Lab Sciences.

The position will also have the following roles and responsibilities:

- Education: Provide training, teaching, and education of UCSD Radiation Oncology residents, medical students, and visiting radiation oncology residents and other professionals.
- Service: Participate in committees at the departmental, cancer center, university, local, and/or national level, as appropriate.
- Professional Development: Continued professional development and integration of new treatment techniques and protocols supported by evidence-based medicine principles.
- Research: Engage in a program of scholarly and creative activity, including enrollment of patients in clinical trials and collaborations with other RMAS Research Faculty.

Candidates must have an MD or equivalent, or MD/PhD in health-related fields. Candidates must have or be eligible for a California medical license or equivalent certification/permit as determined by the Medical Board of California. Candidates must also be board-eligible or board-certified by the American Board of Radiology.

Candidates with a strong interest in academic medicine, particularly in basic science and translational research are preferred. Candidates with a minimum of 5 years of experience in basic science and translational research and a proven publication track record are preferred.

The appropriate series and appointment at the Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor level will be based on the candidate's background and experience. A link to full descriptions of each series is provided for your review:
